

HADDOW'S CONDOMINIUM REPORT

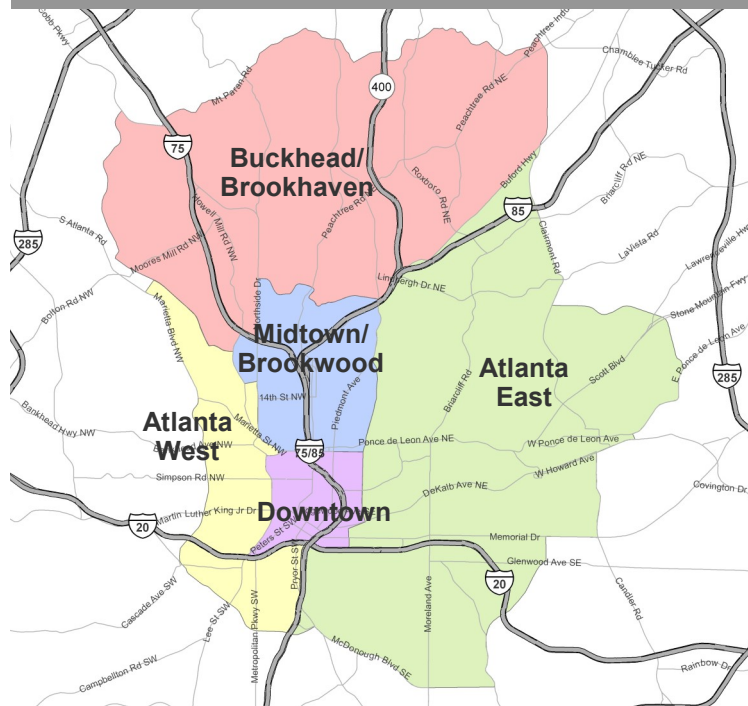

INTOWN ATLANTA

Haddow's Condominium Report has been tracking the intown Atlanta condominium market since the most recent development cycle began in 1997. The biannual report analyzes supply and demand trends and provides detailed information on a project-by-project basis. Data are available for over 450 condominium projects located in the five intown Atlanta submarkets (Downtown, Midtown/Brookwood, Buckhead/Brookhaven, Atlanta East, and Atlanta West). It also monitors trends in the resale market, land and conversion sales activity, and economic indicators which impact the housing market.

CONTENT OF REPORT

- Supply and demand trends are analyzed for intown Atlanta as a whole and for each individual submarket. Summary graphs and tables highlight important market indicators.
- Active and sold-out projects are identified by submarket, highlighting such information as development types, price points, delivery dates, and sales velocity. Proposed developments are also listed.
- Condominium land sales and apartment conversion sales are tracked by submarket from 2000 to present.
- Key economic indicators for the Atlanta MSA, as well as data on Atlanta's real estate cycles.
- A profile of intown Atlanta condominium owners based on comprehensive surveys of nearly 800 households from 2001 to 2005.
